

CLEAVE THE COLD KINGDOM

(2 Peter 2:4; Luke 11:24; Rev 19:20)

Frozen in darkness,
entombed in iniquity,
sinister dungeons their chilling retreat, once shining angels,
now stripped of their dignity, shiver in fury
in bitter defeat.

Trapped in cold wastelands, their judgement impending, cruel, implacable, icy with hate, sinister, brooding,
their purpose unbending,
plotting rebellion,
they scream at their fate.

Wand'ring through black sands, and trembling with anger, steeled in their malice against heaven's Lord, still bent on destruction, with frustrated clangour, they surge with fell purpose across the grim sward.

by Word and by Spirit!
The Name of the Saviour
now shatters its power!
Chill-blooded demons can never inhibit their dread of the fire at the great judgement hour.*
